SO BACK TO THE POLICE STATION...
BELLOWS RACK

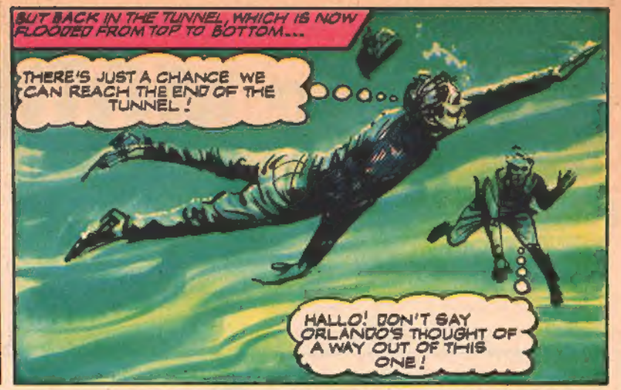
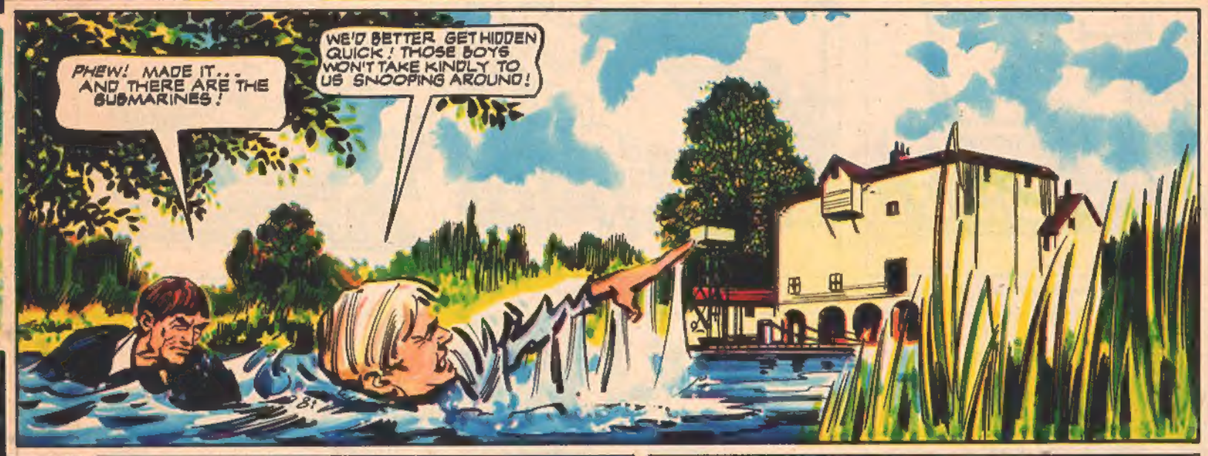
The Kops are handicapped by handcuffs next week!

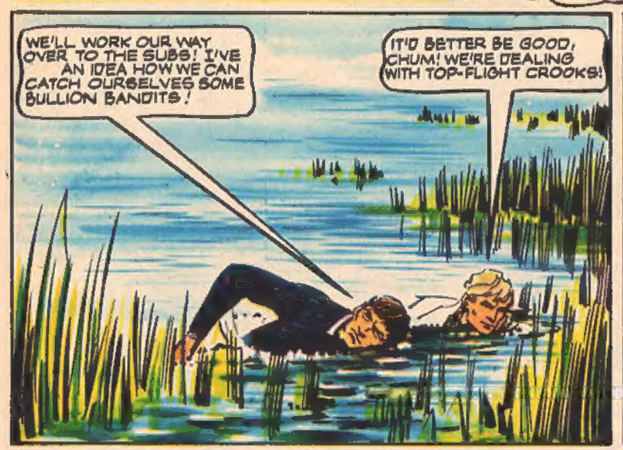
AFTER three weeks the police have given up their hunt for the submarines which stole a million pounds in gold from two bullion ships. However, Orlando discovers an old tunnel on a creek leading off the Thames and when he and Steve investigate water pours in on them . . .

IN HIS CONTROL ROOM AT THE OTHER END OF THE TUNNEL, EDWARDS, LEADER OF THE BANDITS, WATCHES ORLANDO AND STEVE ON HIS VIDEO SCREEN...
THAT'S THE END OF THAT LITTLE PROBLEM! THOSE INTRUDERS WON'T SURVIVE TO TELL THE POLICE ABOUT MY SECRET TUNNEL!

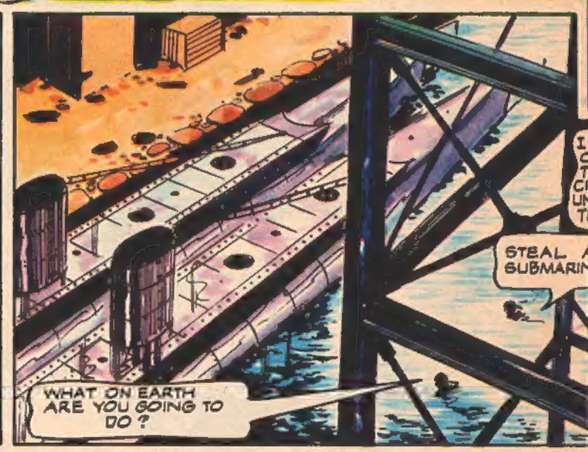


BUT BACK IN THE TUNNEL, WHICH IS NOW FLOODED FROM TOP TO BOTTOM...
THERE'S JUST A CHANCE WE CAN REACH THE END OF THE TUNNEL!
HALLO! DON'T SAY ORLANDO'S THOUGHT OF A WAY OUT OF THIS ONE!



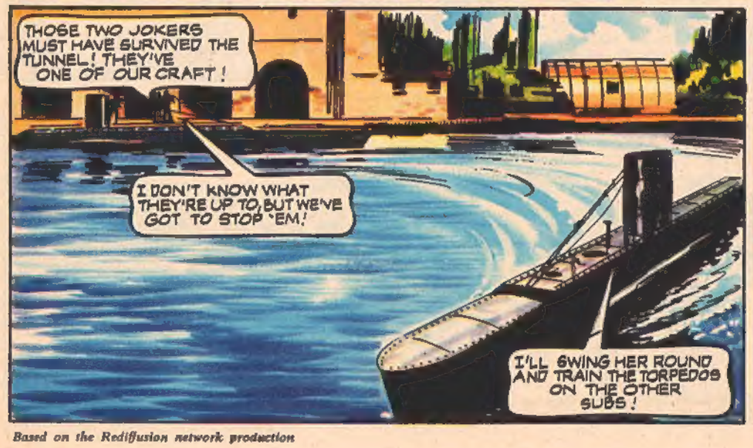


WE'LL WORK OUR WAY OVER TO THE SUBS! I'VE AN IDEA HOW WE CAN CATCH OURSELVES SOME BULLION BANDITS!
IT'D BETTER BE GOOD, CHUM! WE'RE DEALING WITH TOP-FLIGHT CROOKS!



I THINK I REMEMBER HOW TO CONTROL ONE OF THESE THINGS! KEEP YOUR FINGERS CROSSED WE'RE NOT SPOTTED UNTIL I'VE GOT THE TORPEDOS TRAINED ON ONE OF THOSE BLOCK HOUSES NEAR THE BANK!
SO THAT'S IT... YOU'RE GOING TO THREATEN THE CROOKS WITH A TORPEDO ATTACK!

AS SOON AS I START THE ENGINES THOSE CROOKS WILL BE SWARMING ALL OVER US! I'LL HAVE TO GET THE SUB OUT TO THE CENTRE OF THE WATER-WAY FAST!
I'LL HAVE THE TORPEDO TUBES READY!



THOSE TWO JOKERS MUST HAVE SURVIVED THE TUNNEL! THEY'VE ONE OF OUR CRAFT!
I DON'T KNOW WHAT THEY'RE UP TO, BUT WE'VE GOT TO STOP 'EM!
I'LL SWING HER ROUND AND TRAIN THE TORPEDOS ON THE OTHER SUBS!

GET ABOARD! WE'LL FIGHT IT OUT WITH THEM! THEY WON'T KNOW HOW TO OPERATE A SUBMARINE PROPERLY!
IF IT'S A TORPEDO DUEL THEY WANT, THEN THEY'LL GET IT!

HOW

How to make a disc go up and down on top of a bottle without touching it

First chill an empty bottle in the fridge, at its lowest temperature. Now put the bottle on a table, wet the edge of the opening, and put a light disc on top.

Hold the bottle with both hands very firmly to warm it. After a few seconds, one edge of the disc will pop up and then fall back with a 'plop'. This will happen several times.

The air in the bottle warmed by your hands has expanded until some of it pushes out past the disc. Wetting the edge acts as a seal for the disc.

Expansion of air is the reason for several things, winds for instance, and it is the expansion of heated air in the cylinders of a car engine which drives the pistons down to produce power.

How to control a cork in water

You need a glass of water and a cork.

Ask another person to make the cork stay in the centre of the glass of water. This he or she tries to do, but fails.

Simply add more water to the glass carefully until the water is concave to the surface—and the surface tension on the water will bring the cork to the centre of the glass and keep it there.

Abracadabra how

The magic word has a Hebrew origin. It is made up of the initials of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit (Ab, Ben, and Ruach Acadsch). In olden days, it was regarded as a talisman and protection against sickness. Written on parchment, it was hung on the neck by means of a thread. It had, however, to be written as illustrated above.

It is on record that thousands wore this charm during the Great Plague.

How the bee collects nectar and pollen

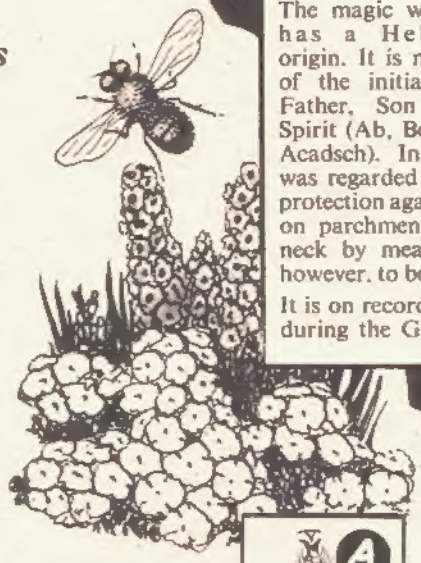
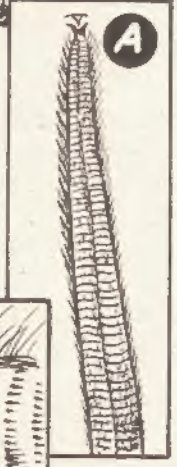
For centuries, sugar was unknown to most people and honey was all that man had to sweeten his food and drink. No wonder the bee was looked on as a friend. It makes honey in tiny amounts, and to make a half-pound jar, its flights to and from the hive would add up to a journey right round the world.

These "worker bees" use their long tongues (A) to suck nectar from flowers, for their food. This sweet liquid is there as a "bribe" for the bees to go inside the flowers and get themselves dusty with pollen. Then, when they fly to other flowers, some of this pollen drops off. Without this "fertilisation," the flowers would not form fruit or seeds.





Some of the pollen is combed off by the bee, and packed into pollen baskets in its back legs (B) then taken back to the hive to be "bee bread".

Nectar is also brought back to the hive, dried and ripened into honey as food for the thousands of bee grubs.

How to demonstrate a shock-wave

You need several coins—the minimum is three.

Lay them in a line with edges touching. Put your finger on the centre one, very firmly. Now, with your other hand, take the one to the right of it and bring it sharply against the coin you are holding down. The coin on the other side jerks away although it has not been touched. The shock wave, coming from the impact on one side, travels through the stationary centre coin to move the other.

To make it even more effective, use two or three halfpennies as the ones to be moved by the shock-wave.

This simple demonstration was used during the Second World War in this country to demonstrate to civilians that walls did not necessarily give protection from shock when bombs fell.
